General Order of Business

Many organizations have bylaws setting out a certain order of business to follow. The following order may be used when there are no such by-laws.

1. Call to Order
   The meeting is called to order by the president, who rises and says, “The meeting will please come to order.”

2. Opening Exercises

3. Roll Call

4. Reading and Approval of Minutes
   Example – The president says, “The secretary will read the minutes of the last meeting.” After the reading, the president asks, “Are there corrections to these minutes?” (Corrections are suggested without motion or vote.) “Since, there are no corrections, the minutes will stand approved as read,” or “Are there any further corrections to the minutes?” . . . “If not, the minutes will stand approved as corrected.”

5. Reading of Communications

6. Reports of Officers
   Officers should be called upon to report in the order in which they are mentioned in the constitution, or by-laws of the organization. Examples – The president says, “We will now have the report by the treasurer.” The treasurer gives the report.

7. Reports of Standing Committees

8. Reports of Special Committees

9. Unfinished Business
   This is action on any business not completed at the previous meeting, such as a tabled or post-poned motion. The secretary should give the chairman a list of unfinished business, or the secretary may be called upon to state the unfinished business to the group.

10. New Business
    After all unfinished business is completed, the chairman asks, “Is there any new business?” Anyone having an item of business for the group presents it at this time. The chairman may know of matters to be acted upon. He should inform the group and ask for any motions they want to make.

11. Program
    Some groups have the program as part of the meeting. Others adjourn the business part of the meeting and then have the program.

12. Announcements

13. Adjournment
    A member can make a motion to adjourn or the chairman can ask for a motion to adjourn. This motion is not discussed, but brought to vote quickly. The meeting is not adjourned until the chairman says, “The meeting is adjourned.”
